Wallace physician: outlook for full recovery not good

By DON MCLEOD

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — George C. Wallace, shot down at an election-eve rally, lay gravely wounded and partially paralyzed today on what was to have been the brightest day of his presidential campaign.

The Alabama governor was hit several times by a gunman who pushed a pistol through a shopping-center crowd at Laurel, Md., Monday afternoon and fired point blank. A man identified by police as Arthur Herman Bremer, 21, of Milwaukee, was wrestled to the ground by members of the crowd and arrested immediately.

After five hours of surgery, police and hospital spokesmen said Wallace's life was no longer in danger, but some paralysis was reported. One physician said the outlook for full recovery was not good. The governor's press secretary quoted doctors as saying the paralysis may be temporary, "but we will know more about this in the next 48 hours." He said Wallace will continue his campaign.

Meanwhile, voters in Maryland and Michigan were balloting today in primaries which Wallace had been favored to win in a double sweep that would have been the high point of his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. "I feel very optimistic about him," Wallace's wife, Cornelia, said after the surgery in Holy Cross Hospital. "As you know his nature, he didn't earn the title of the 'Fighting Little Judge' for nothing, and I expect him to continue in the same vein."

Doctors said Wallace, 52, was hit by five bullets, two of which caused serious wounds. A spokesman said one was removed, but another near the spine and blamed for paralysis of the lower extremities was left in place for the time being.

"I am very happy and I feel very good that he is alive," Mrs. Wallace said. "that he has a sound heart and a sound brain and all his vital organs are solid. I couldn't thank God more."

Mrs. Wallace had said earlier outside the operating-room door that her husband had no feeling below the waist.

Dr. James G. Galbraith, head of the neurological department at the University of Alabama, said the governor is paralyzed in both lower extremities.

"The outlook cannot be predicted but it is not favorable," Galbraith said. "It would be unusual to get complete recovery under these circumstances."

Early today, doctors said Wallace was alert, awake and making progress "as well as we can expect."

Several dozen persons, some of them holding lighted candles, stood vigil outside the hospital during the operation.

Bremer was taken before U.S. Magistrate Clarence Goetz in Baltimore late Monday night and ordered held under $200,000 bond on charges of shooting Wallace and a Secret Service agent.

The agent, Nicholas Zarvos, underwent six hours of surgery for a bullet wound in the neck and was listed in good condition. Doctors said the bullet damaged Zarvos's voice box.

Alabama State Police Capt. E. C. Dothard, who also was hit, was treated for a flesh wound on his right side and released from the hospital.

Dora Thompson, a Wallace campaign worker, suffered a leg wound and was listed in satisfactory condition in Holy Cross.

Billy Joe Camp, Wallace's press secretary, told newsmen today that the governor's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination will continue. Camp said Wallace himself made the decision which was relayed by Mrs. Wallace.

"He will be at the Democratic convention as a strong, viable candidate," Camp told a news conference. "He expects to win in both Maryland and Michigan."

Bremer was charged by federal authorities with violating the 1968 Civil Rights Act by assaulting a candidate for an elective office. He was charged also with assault on a federal officer, Zarvos.

Governor had been prepared for violence

By JULES LOH

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — The ride to the hospital seemed interminably long to Gov. George C. Wallace.

"How much longer?" he asked several times during the 15-minute trip. "I hope they give me a shot of something soon."

It was a trip the provocative campaigner was mentally prepared to make. "I suppose some day somebody might throw something at me other than a rotten egg," Wallace once remarked during his 1968 campaign for the presidency.

Did he worry much about being shot?

"It's not something you let worry you," he said at that time, "but I'm fully aware of the possibility. I'm reminded of it every time I step behind that lectern." The lectern is a three-sided, bulletproof, steel barricade which takes two men to set in place.

Wallace used it in three campaigns the last eight years and spoke from behind it Monday at nearby Laurel — just before he mingled in the crowd and was shot.

At his side and also wounded was Capt. E. C. Dothard of the Alabama state police, a taciturn man who has described his feelings for the governor simply: "I love that little man."

At rallies across the country the past eight years, burly Capt. Dothard has fended off blows from picket signs and many times has stepped in front of Wallace amid barrages of rotten eggs, rocks and bottles, always without a word.

Monday, Dothard, who suffered a flesh wound in his right side, wordlessly held up his forefinger and thumb in an okay sign when he was helped into the ambulance alongside the governor.

Wallace returned the sign and winked at Dothard, who was released from a hospital Monday night.

Wallace was leaving the rally, in a supermarket parking lot, when the man accused of shooting him called him back, according to Emmett W. Eaton, a campaign aide.

"Hey, George, ain't you going to shake my hand?" Eaton said the man called out.

"George turned and walked toward him and that's when he was shot," Eaton said.

Eaton said he rushed to the fallen Wallace, who was lying on his back, and began unbuttoning his shirt.

A martyr to his political cause

Wallace won't be silenced

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace has played upon a chord of political protest that won't be silenced by the bullets that for the present have stilled his presidential campaign.

It is a campaign that seemed destined to reach its high point today, with the Alabama governor favored to win the Democratic primary elections in Maryland and Michigan.

But Wallace could prove more formidable in the weeks ahead from a hospital bed, a martyr to his political cause, than as an active campaigner trying to become a Democratic power broker.

In Maryland and Michigan, Wallace is sure to enlarge on the bloc of presidential-nominating votes that now rank him third in the field. Wallace has 210 votes. Sen. George McGovern leads with 358 first-ballot commitments, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey has 241½.

It appears certain that somehow the 1972 Wallace movement is going to be continued even with the candidate himself out of action—that almost surely the effort will be made to hold his delegates in a force that will have clout in the divided Democratic convention.

There is no obvious stand-in or campaign successor to Wallace. His was essentially a one-man show. There were about 1,000 people on hand at Laurel, Md., when Wallace was gunned down Monday. No other Democrat can turn out that kind of crowd for a weekday political rally.

Nonetheless, with the governor out of the campaign, it is likely someone will stand in to represent him as a symbol of the mood of protest on the Democratic right.

After today, Wallace appeared to have no place to go in the primaries. His name is on the ballot for the May 23 election in Oregon and Rhode Island, but neither is in territory likely to prove particularly friendly.

His three primary election victories were scored in the South, in Florida, Tennessee, and North Carolina. He ran strong in losing the primaries in Wisconsin and Pennsylvania.

Wallace is not entered in the California primary which will award 271 nominating votes on June 6. He talked of a write-in campaign there, and had considered the possibility of campaigning in New Mexico which votes the same day.

Now a Wallace proxy could turn up in one or more of those campaign states to seek whatever support there is to be had for the wounded Alabama governor.

Wallace heavy favorite in two primaries

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

Gov. George C. Wallace, shot and critically wounded on the eve of what looms as his biggest 1972 political triumph, is favored to sweep Democratic presidential primaries today in Michigan and Maryland, possibly boosted by a substantial sympathy vote.

Michigan will divide 132 delegates to the Democratic National Convention proportionately according to the presidential preference voting. In Maryland, 53 votes will be decided on the basis of statewide and congressional district results.

Even before a gunman shot Wallace as he campaigned Monday in the Washington suburb of Laurel, Md. he had been favored to win in both states, and after the shooting an aide said the governor would continue his drive for the presidency.

His top rivals are Sens. George McGovern and Hubert H. Humphrey, considered the leading candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The incident may create "a large sentiment to vote for Wallace," president Tom Turner of the Metropolitan Detroit AFL-CIO, a Humphrey backer, predicted.

McGovern and Humphrey stopped active presidential campaigning, halted television and radio commercials and returned to Washington.

A Wallace television appeal went on as scheduled in Michigan, however, and a Wallace campaign worker in the Detroit suburb of Lincoln Park said, "Nothing's changed. We're still campaigning, and we're still going to carry Michigan."

Polls were scheduled to open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. CDT in Maryland, where only Democrats can cast votes in the Democratic primary.

In Michigan, which is holding its first presidential primary, polls were to open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. CDT.

Pipeline in South cut

N. Viet air defense headquarters hit

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — American fighter-bombers wrecked North Vietnam's air defense headquarters on the southern edge of Hanoi and cut the main pipeline feeding tanks and supply trucks on the northern front in South Vietnam, the U. S. Command announced today.

Intelligence reports have said Russian technicians and advisers were known to be working in the headquarters, but there was no immediate comment on this from the command.

A six-page communique reporting the assessment of damage done by nearly 2,000 strikes in North Vietnam during the past week said:

"The North Vietnamese Air Defense Headquarters at Bach Mai air field, south of Hanoi, was struck by U.S. Air Force F4s, destroying several structures."

Bach Mai is three miles south of Hanoi.

The command also disclosed that air strikes against North Vietnam have been stepped up to an average of 250 per day in the campaign ordered by President Nixon a week ago to choke off supply routes to the south.

The command had announced earlier that both the northwest and northeast rail lines between Hanoi and China had been cut, and the 7th Air Force reported Sunday that its bombers had destroyed the "Dragon's Jaw" bridge at Thanh Hoa, 80 miles south of Hanoi, a key link in North Vietnam's supply network.

But spokesmen said that the effects of the aerial campaign on the enemy offensive in the south would not be known for at least 30 days. They estimated that the North Vietnamese had a month's supply of fuel close at hand for their tanks and vehicles in the south. Fighting in the 48-day-old North Vietnamese offensive slowed down, but the reason was not immediately clear. One U.S. military source said the enemy may have pulled back to consolidate his forces, but "even the most ardent air power advocate would not attribute this lull to the bombing."

Connally quits Treasury post

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon made a surprise personal announcement today that Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally — "a tower of strength for the President" — is resigning.

Nixon told newsmen at the White House that he will nominate George P. Shultz, former Secretary of Labor and currently director of the Office of Management and Budget, to succeed Connally.

To take over from Shultz at OMB, Nixon will name the agency's deputy director, Caspar Weinberger.

Connally said politics didn't figure in his decision to leave the Cabinet after 18 months.

South Vietnamese forces continued to push out from Hue to widen their defenses and keep the North Vietnamese from getting close enough for an all-out attack on the old imperial capital.

Reporting on the air war against the North, a U.S. communique said: "All pumping stations along the main communist pipeline running down the southern panhandle of North Vietnam into the demilitarized zone were destroyed."

Senate considers addition to end-the-war amendment

By JOHN LENGEL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate votes today on adding to an end-the-war amendment a proviso with one of President Nixon's conditions for a total U.S. troop withdrawal — an internationally supervised cease-fire.

The proviso was proposed by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, the assistant Democratic leader, to be included in the amendment sponsored by Sens. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and Frank Church, D-Idaho.

The amendment would cut off all appropriations for U.S. forces in Indochina four months after American prisoners were released by Hanoi.

The Byrd provision, in addition, would require an internationally supervised cease-fire before money could be withheld.

In announcing the mining of North Vietnamese ports,

Nixon said he would withdraw U.S. troops from Vietnam four months after an internationally supervised cease-fire and following Hanoi's return of American prisoners.

Case and Church incorporated the wording on prisoners, saying it would back up with law what the President offered the North Vietnamese.

And Byrd moved to put the cease-fire wording into the amendment.

"If there is to be an end to wholesale slaughter, it can't be accomplished just by withdrawing U.S. forces," Byrd said as debate drew to a close Monday.

But Case and Church said the presidential provision would weaken their amendment.

Church said the cease-fire proviso would bind the President's bargaining position and freeze the chief executive into something he may want to discard later.

And, Church said, to add a cease-fire as a withdrawal condition — a cease-fire the Saigon government would have to agree to — would give South Vietnam a veto on U.S. withdrawal.

Appearing before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee on Monday, Secretary of State William P. Rogers urged Congress not to pass any end-the-war legislation that would undercut Nixon's Vietnam policy.

And Rogers called for an end to criticism of Nixon's response to what Rogers termed "a massive North Vietnamese escalation" of the war.

Opponents of the Case-Church amendment have contended that even discussion of such a proposition encourages the North Vietnamese and weakens the President's position in Moscow.

High speed chase involves youth, 16

Winona police were involved in a high-speed chase involving a 16-year-old Winona boy early Sunday morning in the east sector of the city, according to a belated report from city police.

According to Assistant Chief John Scherer, the chase started in Fountain City, Wis., when Wisconsin authorities observed a car traveling at a high rate of speed. The authorities attempted to apprehend the speeder but the driver refused to stop.

Winona police were notified the driver was heading toward Winona via the interstate bridge. A police car was stationed at the bridge but the driver proceeded past the patrol car turning east on 4th Street.

Scherer said the driver pursued a "zigzag course" through the east sector of the city and at one point during the chase turned off his car lights.

Three police cars were dispatched to the scene and chased the car with their red overhead lights and sirens operating.

In the vicinity of East 3rd and Hamilton streets the car driver lost control of the car, and slid into the curb, stopping on the boulevard where he was apprehended.

The boy was released to the custody of his parents.

Dog tries to jump, car rolls over

MONDOVI, Wis. — A 20-year-old rural Mondovi motorist's car was extensively damaged when he reportedly reached for his dog as it was trying to jump out of a window as they were traveling east on an Albany town road at 6 p.m. Sunday, five miles northwest of Mondovi.

The driver, William Weiss, Mondovi R. 4, escaped injury. The Pepin County sheriff's office reported that after Weiss lost control of the 1970 two-door sedan, it went into the right hand ditch, where it turned over on its top.

There was extensive damage to the right side and top of the car.

Work continues on Stockholm derailment

STOCKHOLM, Wis. — Twenty cars from the mid-section of a Burlington Northern Freight train derailed and ripped through 500 feet of track in downtown Stockholm early Sunday morning, while the engines and caboose escaped damage.

No injuries were reported in the accident that is expected to have rail traffic stacked up along the line for more than a week.

Among the twisted cars were two containing anhydrous ammonia which required immediate attention from railroad safety experts. The two cars did not rupture, however two others containing partially refined oil have been leaking and crews have been cleaning up the spill and pumping the oil into tank trucks.

FOUR OF the derailed cars contained fertilizer while the others held furniture, rugs, paper, electrical components and several cars were piggyback truck units.

While the debris is being cleared trains are being either rerouted or slowed. Several were derailed on Milwaukee Road tracks until an eastbound track could be opened Monday.

Turnover here is low

Teacher job market increasingly tight

By C. GORDON HOLTE
Daily News Staff Writer

An increasingly tight job market in teaching is reflected in a substantially reduced rate of turnover in the instructional staff of the public schools of Winona Independent District 861 for the 1972-73 contract year.

Superintendent of Schools A. L. Nelson reports that the number of resignations received this spring from members of this year's faculty is the lowest in a number of years.

He feels that this trend toward less mobility is attributable in large part to more limited employment opportunities in education throughout the nation.

FOR THE first time in many years, the district administration has not advertised job openings, although certain college placement bureaus have been con-

Chief McCabe to retire June 2

Chief of the Winona police department, James W. McCabe, announced his resignation this morning, to take effect June 2.

McCabe, 61, who has been with the department for 29 years, said he has accepted a position with a different organization in Winona but declined to give any further details at this time.

McCabe, a native of Arcadia, Wis., joined the police force here in 1942 as a patrolman.

Police, protesters are commended

The Winona City Council Monday night issued letters of commendation to both the Winona Police Department and anti-war marchers for conduct during demonstrations here last week.

The move came at the end of the council's regular meeting Monday night, when Mayor Norman Indall and City Manager Carroll J. Fry asked the council to commend the police for exercising what Fry called "commendable restraint" in handling the demonstrations last week.

Antiwar activities last week included two short sit-ins at the Winona Selective Service office, a brief takeover of City Hall, several blocked intersections and a number of marches without parade permits, but police meticulously avoided confrontations and made no arrests.

The council quickly approved the police commendation, and Councilman Barry Nelson then asked the council to also "commend" the student demonstrators for showing cooperation and restraint as well.

Nelson said they showed "the proper conduct of peaceful demonstrations." Other councilmen balked only slightly until Nelson agreed to include the wording "on the whole" in his motion, since Councilman Dan Trainor, Jr., noted that some of the antiwar activities showed "some discrepancies" from proper and peaceful conduct.

In an unrelated matter, the council also authorized Indall to send a letter of commendation to the Winona Kiwanis Club for its work last weekend in cleaning up County Ditch 3 and Prairie Island.

All officers were reelected at the annual meeting of Family Service of the Margaret Simpson Home held in the executive office Monday.

They are: Howard Keller, president; Kenneth Seebold, vice president; Miss Marilyn King, secretary, and Gerald Whetstone, treasurer.

Board members elected to serve three-year terms are Steve James and Ernest Buhler. Re-elected to the board for three-year terms were Frank Coffey, Dr. Sidney O. Hughes, Mrs. Dottie Lemboke and Gerald Whetstone. Mrs. Phillip Karsina will replace Mrs. John Breitlow, retiring from the board, for a one-year term.

Ben Hayenga, agency director, in his 11th annual report, reported counseling for 150 cases, and 982 interviews conducted. The agency acted as the uniting force for volunteer agencies which had their beginning during the past year, directed the Homemakers' Services, and collaborated with the community in the Hot Meals on Wheels program, Hayenga said.

Special agents from the Minneapolis and La Crosse offices of the railroad are on hand to protect the area from sightseers and scavengers, while Railway Supt. G. G. Saylor and District Vice President J. E. Hamer came from Chicago to inspect the site. As yet no estimate of damages is available.

A crew of nearly 40 men is working to clear the site with flatcars and gondolas on hand to transport the damaged equipment to the Twin Cities for repair.

During the derailment the roadbed of the eastbound track dropped two feet and trains using this track must reduce speed to 10 miles an hour until the bed can be restored to proper grade.

WITH BUT one track in use and the speed reduced, trains have been stacked up at both ends causing delays and other problems.

Railroad officials estimate it will take at least a week to remove the debris from the site and get the roadbed of the lone track back into shape. No time estimate for how long it would take to get the entire area back to normal was ventured.

tacted regarding applicants in certain subject areas.

Dr. C. H. Hopf, assistant superintendent for secondary education, reports there were only four positions on the senior and junior high schools staff to be filled this year.

"Normally we fill about 30 secondary openings a year," Dr. Hopf noted, adding that since the first of this year there have been more than 300 applicants for the four openings.

He said the only position remaining to be filled is one from which a faculty member resigned earlier this month after being on an extended leave of absence because of illness.

HE SAID he had deliberately deferred making any firm commitment to any applicant for this post awaiting the decision of the teacher on leave as to whether he would return to the

Prior to joining the department he worked on construction.

IN 1954 HE was promoted to motorcycle sergeant, and in 1959 he was made captain. He was acting chief for four months before his permanent appointment on Jan. 15, 1964.

McCabe has completed schooling at Northwestern University Traffic Institute and in supervision of police personnel at the same institution. Other schools include civil defense, FBI, crime and traffic, first aid, Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, arrest and search and mental disorders.

McCabe ran for Winona County sheriff in 1970 but was eliminated in the primaries.

Assistant Chief John Scherer will be acting chief June 3 until a new chief is appointed, said Carroll Fry, city manager.

FRY indicated he will leave the selection of a new chief of police to the new city manager. Fry's resignation takes effect June 3.

Commenting on McCabe's resignation, Fry said, "The community should appreciate his long period of service and untiring devotion to the principles of police work."

During the derailment the roadbed of the eastbound track dropped two feet and trains using this track must reduce speed to 10 miles an hour until the bed can be restored to proper grade.

WITH BUT one track in use and the speed reduced, trains have been stacked up at both ends causing delays and other problems.

Railroad officials estimate it will take at least a week to remove the debris from the site and get the roadbed of the lone track back into shape. No time estimate for how long it would take to get the entire area back to normal was ventured.

tacted regarding applicants in certain subject areas.

Dr. C. H. Hopf, assistant superintendent for secondary education, reports there were only four positions on the senior and junior high schools staff to be filled this year.

"Normally we fill about 30 secondary openings a year," Dr. Hopf noted, adding that since the first of this year there have been more than 300 applicants for the four openings.

He said the only position remaining to be filled is one from which a faculty member resigned earlier this month after being on an extended leave of absence because of illness.

HE SAID he had deliberately deferred making any firm commitment to any applicant for this post awaiting the decision of the teacher on leave as to whether he would return to the system next fall.

"It's really tight," Dr. Hopf said of the employment situation. "I'm receiving probably four or five applications by mail daily from all over the United States. Most of them, I believe, are being sent out blindly to numerous districts by teachers seeking jobs."

He said the number of applicants varied according to subject areas and estimated that perhaps as many as 200 applications had been received from social science instructors.

Dr. Hopf said that at this time, except for the post recently opened by resignation, he has only part-time positions to be filled — in art and home economics — and says he anticipates no serious difficulty in finding instructors.

E. W. MUELLER, assistant superintendent for elementary education, meanwhile, reported

School Board voting is now under way

Voting for two School Board members in two election districts of Winona Independent School District 861 began at noon today.

This year's elections are in the 3rd District, extending from the center of Liberty Street to the center of 4th Street, and in the 4th District, bounded on the west by the center line of Liberty Street and on the east by the city limits.

Each district will elect one director for a three-year term. The polls, at Central Elementary School in the 3rd District and at Washington-Kosciusko School in the 4th District, will remain open until 8 p.m.

Voting machines are being used at both.

Anyone 18 or older who has been a resident of his district for at least 30 days is eligible to vote.

In the 3rd District, School Board President Frank J. Allen, 203 E. Broadway, is opposed in his bid for reelection by the Rev. John R. Preston, 362 Johnson St.

Fourth District Director Daniel S. Sadowski, 571 E. Broadway, is running for reelection against Mrs. Warren C. Galbus, 1005 Glen Echo Lane, and William Andres, 653 E. 2nd St.

School Board meeting time is corrected

A special meeting of the School Board of Independent District 861 will be at 8:30 p.m. today at Senior High School, not at 7 p.m. as reported in Sunday's listing of meetings of governmental bodies.

Strum girl is 'serious' after crash

ELEVA, Wis. (Special) — Two area girls were injured, one seriously, in a one car accident which occurred on Highway 93, six miles south of Eleva, on Saturday evening.

Rhonda Brian, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brian, Strum, was listed this morning in serious condition, but improving, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Marshfield. She has facial lacerations and a fractured jaw, according to a hospital spokesman.

LuAnn Sather, 18, Eleva, was reported in satisfactory condition at Buffalo Memorial Hospital, Mondovi, with head lacerations.

The accident was reported to the Trempealeau County Sheriff's office at 10:36 p.m. Saturday.

Darryl McBride, traffic officer, said the 1963 model sedan, driven by Miss Brian, went off the west side of the roadway, traveled 124 feet, hit a driveway, jumped 48 feet in the air, struck a cement retaining wall at an underpass, rolled over on its left side, and came to rest in a culvert.

The careening vehicle traveled 404 feet out of control, said McBride.

Both girls were taken to the Mondovi hospital. Miss Brian was transferred immediately to the Marshfield Hospital.

The car was a total loss; its engine and transmission were ripped out.

An investigation is continuing.

a somewhat similar situation as far as placements at the elementary grade levels are concerned.

He said his only openings are for a sixth grade class, a combination fourth and fifth, a fourth grade class, a position in Learning Center II (third and fourth grade) at Goodview School, two art and one special education class.

Mueller says he sees no difficulty in filling the openings except, perhaps, in art and special education, which have been posted at colleges. He said he has been in contact with placement personnel at both Winona State College and the College of Saint Teresa.

Far fewer resignations were received from elementary teachers this year, too, Mueller says, than in previous years.

GOING into this month there were resignations, said, from only eight regular classroom teachers and two special teachers while last year between 20 and 30 were hired.

Mueller also said he had received some 150 complete applications, including credentials, and probably as many more inquiries about openings. He said applications and inquiries currently were being received at the rate of between three and five a day.

Both assistant superintendents agreed that most of the resignations they had received were from teachers whose spouses had been transferred or had obtained employment outside Winona, women who were being married or were pregnant.

In previous years, they recalled, numerous resignations were received from teachers who wished to live in other communities but that only a minimal number gave such reasons this year.

Sewer bond sale authorized

The Winona City Council Monday night authorized the sale of $1,040,000 in general obligation sewer bonds for completion of the city's new wastewater treatment facility.

The bond issue will be for three years, with interest on the bonds to be paid by the sewer service charge and the principal by an increased grant from the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (PCA).

City officials said the money will not come from the general tax levy.

CITY Manager Carroll J. Fry explained to councilmen that the city issued $1 million in emergency debt certificates to allow construction of the new sewage treatment plant to continue, but those debt certificates must be paid off by Aug. 1.

As is now obvious, Fry said, that the PCA grant necessary to take care of the debt will not arrive for another year or two, making some other action necessary.

Fry noted that the city administration had considered recommending that the debt certificates be renewed for another year. That concept was rejected, however, since there remains considerable doubt that the funds will be received by Aug. 1, 1973, the absolute ceiling on extension of the emergency debt certificates.

The money will likely be in the city's hands by June, 1974, Fry said, but suggested the issuance of three-year bonds to give the city some cushion.

Minneapolis bonding consultant Osmon Springsted told the council that the three-year issue would be the wisest move, pointing out that if the grant arrives sooner, it could be reinvested at a higher interest rate and the city could make a profit on it until the three years run out.

Moscow: beneath the surface a potentially dangerous mass

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Next weekend President Nixon leaves for the second of this year's major summit meetings — a session in Moscow to supplement his February talks with Chinese leaders. What sort of people will Nixon be facing across the Kremlin tables? What are the aims of Soviet foreign policy?

These and other questions are discussed in this first of four articles tracing the record from Russia's 1917 revolution through World War II and the cold war.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
The tip of Moscow's foreign policy iceberg is labeled "peaceful coexistence."

Beneath the surface is a ponderous and potentially dangerous mass.

At the Moscow summit next week President Nixon will deal with a group of aging Soviet leaders who are both Russian and Leninist. Their concepts of world competition have been frozen by 50 years of Leninist ideology.

In 1917, V. I. Lenin, founder of Bolshevism and the Soviet state, said: "Theoretically, it would be absolutely mistaken to forget that every war is merely a continuation of politics by other means."

In 1918, Lenin said: "It is ridiculous ... not to know that a treaty is a means of gaining strength." The Soviet record on treaties has been one of pledges made to be broken when breaking them served the national interest.

Since Lenin, Soviet policy has aimed at two basic goals: security of the Soviet state and expansion of Soviet authority. That policy was swaddled in a tight blanket of tradition. Today it has a look of the era of a century ago, a sort of Victorian diplomacy relying on deception and armed power.

Under Stalin, when Moscow was worried it feigned indifference, as witness the attitude toward the first U.S. atom bomb. When the Kremlin was seriously concerned about one area, it sought to divert attention by focusing on another. When Moscow sought to be subtle it often proved clumsy, resorting to naked force to achieve its ends.

What Stalin could safely take, he took: half of Poland, all three Baltic nations, a piece of Germany, a slice of Romania. He imposed Soviet-dominated rulers, at the points of Russian bayonets, on Eastern Europe.

The Stalin strategy of feint and probe, involving retreat when situations became too dangerously hot, carried over to his successors.

When Stalin was resisted in Iran in 1946, after trying to bite off that country's Azerbaijan Province, he pulled back. When the West resisted his attempt to seize isolated West Berlin, he gave up the gamble. Warned off Greece and Turkey by President Harry S. Truman, he backed away.

In terms of dogma, Soviet policy couldn't be wrong in Kremlin eyes because it advanced "progressive" interests of the so-called motherland of socialism. Soviet claims are always "just." Those of others are always "trumped up," having nothing in common with peaceful intentions.

Basically, this has proved a perilous sort of policy, often risking war situations. Stalin ran the risk in Iran and Berlin. Nikita S. Khrushchev ran the risk trying to install offensive missiles in Cuba. There is a chronic risk in the powerful Soviet military presence in the Middle East.

Where the policy could safely be made to stick, the Kremlin made it stick. Thus in Hungary in 1956 and Czechoslovakia in 1968, Soviet military forces strangled reform movements and the West did nothing, because to challenge what was happening could have risked major war.

Suspicion is another hallmark of the sort of policy Nixon must confront. For 54 years, deep suspicion has dominated relations between Moscow and Washington. Soviet-American relations were never really good except, perhaps, for a brief period of alliance during World War II.

Stalin called himself Leninist. Khrushchev called himself Leninist. Today's leaders profess to be ardent and faithful followers of all Lenin's doctrines. Toward the United States and "imperialism," they have textbook attitudes.

"The Soviet Union pursues a resolute anti-imperialist course, consistently and firmly upholding the interests of socialism, the freedom of peoples and the cause of universal peace," Leonid I. Brezhnev said in a March speech.

That sentence could have been lifted from Stalin or Khrushchev.

In the U.S. experience, "anti-imperialist" in a Soviet statement invariably has meant anti-United States.

"Peace and freedom of peoples" has meant the security of the Soviet system and the inviolability of Communist party rule wherever it has been installed.

Ever since the Soviet system began, its leaders have expressed a conviction that the United States wanted to destroy it. Even before World War II ended, Stalin resumed the struggle against what he called imperialism.

Suspicion on the Soviet side is not much less now than it was in the Stalin era and certainly no less than in Khrushchev's time. Listen to Brezhnev in that March speech: "An event that attracted attention not so long ago was the visit to China by U.S. President Nixon and his talks with the Peking leaders. What can be said on this matter?"

What could be said, he suggested, was that neither Peking nor Washington told what really went on at the Nixon-Chou En-lai meetings. It seemed to Brezhnev much more went on than either would let on. How else, he asked a bit sourly, could one assess the Nixon remark in Shanghai: "Our two peoples hold in their hands the future of the whole world." He left unspoken an obvious question: Where would that leave the Soviet Union?

Brezhnev and his colleagues have displayed for a long time a dread of the notion of "bridge-building." Moscow has denounced the whole idea as part of a U.S.-inspired plot to undermine communist rule.

The Kremlin has never been hesitant about pushing its own propaganda for revolutionary overthrow of existing regimes around the world, but it violently resents and sternly denounces anything from the other side that it chooses to read as propaganda against communist rule.

While opening seeking encouraging, financing and even arming revolution in non-communist nations, the Kremlin is decidedly antirevolutionary in its own backyard. It jealously guards the status quo with ar-morplated conservatism. This regime, like its predecessors, long has negotiated from the standpoint of "what's ours is ours, what's yours we'll negotiate about."

Nixon will find Brezhnev and his colleagues tough bargainers, as were Stalin and Khrushchev before them. This is hardly surprising. All of them were brought up in an atmosphere of rigid adherence to a doctrine which allows almost any means for accomplishing the end.

If, as the Soviet leaders insist, they are devoted to the precepts of Lenin, their policy should reflect it. It has. With regard to peaceful coexistence, the Soviet Communist party constantly warns communists abroad not to carry it too far. It means that in dangerous circumstances rival powers should be able to live side by side short of total war, and circumstances have hardly ever been as dangerous as they are today. But it does not mean an end to the ideological war. It does not mean an end to the Soviet drive to overturn systems of other countries.

The interpretation of peaceful coexistence in Moscow has not changed since the Communist International Congress of 1928. "The peace policy of the proletarian state," it said, "certainly does not imply that the Soviet state has become reconciled with capitalism ... It is merely another and, under present conditions, more advantageous form of fighting capitalism."

Nixon, economists differ on forecast

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — If you accept the Nixon administration's outlook for the economy you are making plans for a steady decline in the rate of inflation as price and wage limitations tighten their grip.

If you are a hard-nosed economist whose opinions are the basis for corporate spending decisions you might think differently. You might even place your bet on a rise rather than a decline in inflation.

A lot of companies that subscribe to the Quarterly Review of Economic Prospects may be doing just that. The current issue states flatly: "Inflation will not be licked."

There may be a temporary improvement, it concedes, but it will be short-lived. It says, "Consumer prices will increase 3.6 per cent this year and 4.7 per cent in 1973."

That forecast is not to be taken lightly if only because of the source, which is the General Electric Co., fourth largest industrial company in the country, manufacturer of many scores of consumer items.

While looking for "broad, steady growth" in the economy overall, and expecting next year to be "somewhat stronger than anticipated earlier," the GE economists foresee elements that won't make Washington one bit happy.

Among them:
• Unemployment will remain above 5.4 per cent this year, dropping to around 5 per cent

by the end of 1973.

• Interest rates will rise slowly in 1972, as the economy develops momentum, and more rapidly next year, when credit becomes more restrictive.

• The housing boom has already peaked. While the number of units on which work has begun will hit a record of 2.3 million this year, only 1.9 million units will be started next year.

Is the forecast realistic? The answer can only be supplied by time. The proof, that is, will be provided by the statistical evidence available one or two years from now.

Bond issue for Minnesota Power & Light approved

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A bond issue totaling $4.75 million has been approved for Minnesota Power & Light Co., of Duluth, Gov. Wendell Anderson announced today.

Anderson said the revenue bonds, okayed by Economic Development Commissioner Roger L. Baker, are believed to be the first in the nation approved for the purchase of industrial pollution control abatement equipment for public utilities.

"The action is consistent with the state's policy of encouraging positive programs that assist Minnesota industry in solving its problems," Anderson said in a release.

The dangers of running for office

If once upon a time we felt we needed to read about South American countries for stories about politics with the gun that notion should be pretty well dispelled now.

The assassinations of the two Kennedys and of Martin Luther King in the 1960s were, contrary to contemporary reaction, no unusual phenomena. The gun, it seems, has nearly the force of a vote in recent American political history.

Even before the attempt on his life in Maryland yesterday, Governor Wallace of Alabama was given a good chance to lead in the popular vote in Maryland and in Michigan today. The man who gunned him down in the Laurel shopping center may have achieved an altogether different objective than oblivion through death.

Among the Democratic contenders for the nomination, the Alabama governor has been the primary "law and order" candidate. His critics have said that his hard-line attitude toward the criminal has not resulted in making Alabama a tranquil state; yet the experience is certain to harden the governor's attitudes toward tolerance of the criminal element and give others with more gentle attitudes pause to reexamine their attitudes.

It probably will be said again that the assassin was mentally unbalanced; yet increasingly many will wonder if it is not the society that is unbalanced, given to the whims of permissiveness and the dangers of confrontation. Less visible than the dramatic assassinations and attempts thereat is a dismal record of murder and robbery and assault and rape and the other myriad forms of man's inhumanity to man.

It will be said again, too, ban the small gun from private ownership — and it should be — but that alone will not calm a seething society.

Will candidates for national office be compelled to conduct their campaigns from television studios? How did senators McGovern and Humphrey feel today when they made their first public appearances? Are they asking themselves, "Can I afford to run for office," or are they asking, "Can I afford to risk my life to run for office?" — A.B.

Take-home pay of the very few

ITT apparently won't need to pass along $200,000 or $400,000, or whatever it was, to underwrite the Republican convention in San Diego, where it operates a hotel or two; but it won't make a great deal of difference one way or another in its fortunes. Last year it had revenues of $8.8 billion and profits of $337 million.

As a matter of fact, its president probably could have managed the Republican contribution out of his own income. Forbes magazine's compilation of chief executives pay puts ITT's president, Harold S. Geneen, in the No. 1 spot. His salary last year was $382,000, and his total remuneration — including fringe benefits, a term which hardly seems suitable at this salary level — was $812,000, not including such so-called perquisites as club memberships, expense accounts and the use of a company car or airplane.

Mr. Geneen also owns or controls 8,815,000 shares of ITT stock and collects the dividends therefrom. It closed at 53 3/4 yesterday on the New York Stock Exchange, which translates into . . . well, you figure it out, as you contemplate your take-home pay.

Although other chief executives of major corporations do quite well, Mr. Geneen is in a class by himself. The No. 2 man on the list is the president of City Investing, whose total compensation was only $443,000.

All of which reinforces what Sen. Fred S. Harris writes in the current issue of Saturday Review:

"The poorest one-fifth of the population gets 5 percent of the national income. The second-poorest fifth — the 'lower middle class' — earns only 13 percent, and the richest one-fifth gets over 40 percent of the income. After taxes, thanks to the loopholes, these percentages remain almost exactly the same.

"Obviously, if we are going to stop the vicious cycle of the poor getting poorer, the income is going to have to come from the richest 20 percent of the population, which collects 40 percent of the national income each year, and not from working people, whose 20 percent of the national population earns only 13 percent of the national income.

"GM President Richard Gerstenberg should have to shave his $600,000 annual income before a $10.000 worker is asked to cut his. That's not cheap politics or irrational romanticism, it's simple justice."

*Forbes says the GM president's compensation last year was $275,000. — A.B.

compassion for the people of the United States — the people simply as people and not as members of this or that political or social bloc. Nobody in this country is doing better writing and surely nobody is doing it with less grasping for quick rewards.

Their central message is antirace — they celebrate good and simple things while resolutely calling attention to things that are neither. And running through the pages of Place is a warning to the I'm-all-right-Jack Americans who consider that so long as they themselves are successful, nothing and nobody else need be considered.

This poem by Place contributor Cia Holdorf tells the story very well:

WHEN SILVER BRIDGE SHOOK
When Silver Bridge shook and spilled

One hundred and fifty men and women
Into the wide Ohio at mid-morning,
And the tumbling chunks of concrete
Broke ice like giants' footfalls,
The bounty hunters came down to fish for corpses:
With rakes and makeshift spears
They stirred the broken scum,
Easing down the limestone banks
One by one,
And they forced flatbeds through the bracken
And crackling mud,
And they searched the heaving current
For the hapless bob of a broken body —
This one, trailing muddy chintz,
And there, nosing his shoe across a quiet pool,
And there
Waiting under a sheaf of ice, her eyes
To the passing sky.
But as I was standing above
Near the rift in the concrete hedge,
One of the hunters himself sailed by Doing the dead man's loll,
His harpoon floating behind him,
Snagged in the lamb's wool jacket
Of his twenty-dollar catch:
The dead and the burier of the dead
Lifelessly jostling downstream
Toward a floating nest
Of Rhododendron prunings.
In the eye of the beholder,
No certainty.

Tough equation

What most people are looking for these days is less to do, more time to do it in and more pay for not getting it done. — Baltimore Sun.

Don Luis

William F. Buckley

The governor of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico sat pensively during dinner flanked by two visitors and two aides and their wives, on top of La Fortaleza, the oldest continuously occupied executive building in the western world, looking out over the lights of the harbor at San Juan.

A half-hour earlier he had sped off to the old Dominican convent, now a public monument, to sign a new law. There were several hundred elderly Puerto Ricans waiting for him, listening to five quite awful musicians playing a little squeakily into a microphone which every now and then contributed its thunder and static to the occasion.

DON LUIS Antonio Ferre sat down with his aides in the front row and listened patiently to the music. Then after being introduced as "our beloved governor" he reminisced that as a member of the legislature in the early fifties he had introduced a bill designed to give government pensioners a living wage. Now finally, as governor, he had the satisfaction of signing such a bill, and advancing the cause of justice. I hope, he said, in the future to be able to continue to advance the cause of justice. The pensioners applauded.

This is election year. Three old gentlemen were called to sit by the governor's side. And a lady who had worked for the government for 52 years, and must have added weight at the rate of a kilo per year, eased herself down on a little chair as the crowd held its breath. The chair held. The governor has an advanced degree in mechanical engineering from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; his chairs work. So is Puerto Rico working, under his leadership.

Spectacularly in one sense, the rise in the gross national product having gone forward resolutely even in the searick economic conditions of the past few years. The governor, a widower, shook the ladies' hands, and embraced the gentlemen, and sped back to Fortaleza for dinner where he confessed that he had not until recently begun to inquire deeply into the nature of Napoleon, but that he is now (at age 67) reading a biography which points out that Bonaparte always looked for themes around which to unify the French people at moments of high national disarray, that one such was the Legion of honor. What is the Puerto Rican equivalent, the visitor asked? Dignity, he said.

HAS THE United States been guilty of any actual indignity towards the Puerto Ricans? Not really, the governor said. Everyone behaves well, even the tourists. It is known, though Don Luis does not dwell on it, that the governor has wanted Puerto Rico to become the 51st state of the union. He fought for it in 1967 when a plebiscite was conducted, but the motion was defeated six to four. This does not mean that Puerto Ricans wish disengagement from the United States. Those who do are a tiny though not noisy minority.

The governor will point out that Puerto Rico's standard of living, while to be sure only two-thirds per capita that of Mississippi, the lowest state in the union, is nevertheless five or six times the per capita wealth of neighboring Dominican Republic notwithstanding that the Dominicans have five times the land. The difference is: America. Perhaps he will raise the subject again after he is reelected, if he is reelected.

Meanwhile there is work to do. The very poor. The problem of politics. Governor Ferre is a practical man. He is very very rich, having labored many years in successful enterprises, including a vast cement works.

After dinner, in his informal office, he sits at a baby grand and executes with polish an extraordinarily difficult sonata by Franz Liszt, and then tackles the piano part of a Schubert piano-cello sonata.

THOUGH ART is this politician's first enthusiasm, and he owns the largest collection of Italian Baroque and pre-Raphaelite art in the world, he gave it recently away, to a museum in Ponce. He had Edward Durrell Stone build it, to hold the 500 paintings.

It is legendary that on the day of its dedication a peasant, spotting the chief magistrate, said to him: was he indeed the governor? Yes, he was. Was he indeed a very successful businessman? Yes, he was. Was he also the accomplished pianist? Well, yes. Well, how did he have time to paint all those paintings? The story is apocryphal, but Luis Antonio Ferre is delighted by it, as are his visitors delighted by this worldly, sensitive, and gentle man who presides happily over the tangled affairs of Puerto Rico.

May is many things

An editorial in New York Times

The month of May is a serenade of tree frogs and persistent spring peepers, and it is a time of dandelions, still more skunk cabbage, and dogwoods and lilacs in bloom. It is the slap of paint brushes in the boyards and rakes scratching in suburban gardens. It is thunder and lightning and downpours but it is also young lovers whispering under a big moon that makes a glittering path on pond, river, lake and sea.

It is weeping willows leafing out in gentle, pale drifts and apple and peach blossoms that look even lovelier when girls wear them in their hair. It is the grinding of lawn mowers and outboard motors; it is a time of fragrance and May flowers and violets in bloom, of black flies and mosquitoes and of screen doors

Soft judges make hardened criminals

From an advertisement of The Warner & Swasey Company:

Much too much sympathy is wasted in this country on criminals; and there is far, far too little concern for the victims they murder, rob, rape, beat and burn. Almost every day you read about some vicious human, freed on a ridiculous technicality, or turned loose after serving only a fraction of his sentence. And then the awful sequel — another victim of that same criminal who should not have been free to murder and burn and rob again.

For too many years the trend in this nation has been to permissiveness without punishment — too much ease and too little responsibility.

This country still belongs to those people who worked to build it, not to the shiftless who contribute nothing yet demand they be taken care of. It is high time the men and women who do the work and pay the taxes and carry the responsibility said a loud NO to those who are destroying the decency and dignity and future of America.

Adults also like roller skating

For the five years I have been living in Winona I have sorely regretted not having the financial ability or the management know-how to establish a roller skating rink in Winona.

In my hometown in Rhode Island I enjoyed a skating rink for years, investing countless hours on wheels. I've developed a deep appreciation for the activity. I certainly would like to realize the income of owning a successful rink.

However, I will content myself on only speaking out on the behalf of those adults wanting a rink. It is already established the kids and teens want a place to skate in their city.

Now I would like to emphasize that many adults in Winona would like to enjoy the good healthy sport of skating on "adult night" as well as family nights with their kids.

Further, there are many adults in this community who do not spend their recreational hours in bars, movies and the like and would appreciate the wholesomeness of skating.

And for those of us who take skating seriously, instructors can be found or trained to give lessons on skating techniques. There is a definite attractiveness to graceful, accomplished skating. The development of grace and coordination is especially beneficial to the young people.

Roller skating is often thought of as "kid stuff" and many people don't realize there is competition (awards,

There is something for young and old in roller skating. I for one hope to enjoy regular skating right here in Winona soon.

New laws are killing small meat markets

Several weeks ago a meat processor in Fountain City was forced to go out of business. In a few days, the local meat market will also be closing its doors and going out of business. The reason? Overbearing rules and regulations.

IT HAS BEEN determined by numerous inspections that the facilities are not adequate to process meat. They had been very adequate for many years, but in these days of big business influences and increased bureaucratic controls, the facilities have been found to lack the necessary expensive equipment and furnishings to process meat. Improvements required would be very costly and quite impractical for a small business.

Maybe I'm partial to our local businesses, or maybe I'm old-fashioned and like good-tasting meat, but I have yet to find a place which meets all the "expensive" regulations and still sells meat with the "fresh" taste. Meat which I have purchased at a large supermarket usually tastes either old, tough or fatty. Of course, I shouldn't complain. Their facilities meet all the regulations, so their meat has to be the best. Sounds good on paper, but tastes terrible on the dinner plate.

I realize that the two cases in Fountain City are not unique. Small businesses throughout the country are being forced to close their doors because of unbearable controls and regulations set forth by our elected or appointed officials. Our constitution guarantees us free enterprise; however, this is swiftly becoming obscure, as the small businessman is finding it impossible to compete with the corporate monsters. The large companies can afford to meet new standards and regulations while the small businessman cannot.

A TIME when our economy is not in the best of condition is not a time to force our small businesses to close. Our small businessmen pay an enormous amount of dollars in taxes, while our corporate monsters continue to "legally" evade billions of dollars in taxes every year.

Somewhere, somehow, sometime soon, something has to change. Let's give our local businessman a break. Let's help them remain in business.

University will not be closed, president vows

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — President Malcolm Moos of the University of Minnesota has promised to keep the campus open despite the demands and continuing demonstrations of some young people who want classes shut down in protest against the Vietnam war.

About 150 protesters occupied an administration building on the Minneapolis campus for nearly three hours Monday but left after a warning from university officials.

The demonstrations by fragmented protest groups were to continue today. In a related action, students at Macalester College in St. Paul were sponsoring a "Consumer's Blockade for Peace" in Minneapolis and St. Paul. Some 40 to 50 students were to pass out leaflets to shoppers, urging them to buy only the "necessities of life" as a way of convincing the political and economic sectors of the nation to halt the war.

The occupation of Johnston Hall Monday began the second week of disruptions, which followed President Nixon's announcement May 8 that he had ordered the mining of North Vietnamese ports.

"I say you can protest with progress," Moos told a news conference, adding that we will continue to resist demands by some protesters to close the

Checks locked in occupied building; Moos makes a loan

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The takeover of the University of Minnesota's Johnston Hall by demonstrators Monday meant some staff members didn't get paid.

Checks were locked up in the building.

University President Malcolm Moos said he encountered one anguished graduate student who was due a check for part-time work.

"Will $20 help?" Moos asked the student. He said the student gladly accepted the loan.

"I'm not going to let this turn into a constant interruption of the university process," he said.

Moos said any student may withdraw from the university to engage in antiwar activities, but that most of the 39,000 students want to continue classes. The Johnston Hall occupiers had been warned they would be "considered trespassing" and in violation of state law if they remained after 4:30 p.m. They emerged about 4:15 p.m. There were no arrests.

Moos said the occupation appeared "completely peaceful" and said he knew of no property damage. The takeover forced about 200 administrative workers from the building, which houses offices of the College of Liberal Arts and the Graduate School.

The demonstrators barricaded themselves inside the building after receiving what they described as "inadequate answers" to their demands from Moos.

The demands were abolition of the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) on campus, an end to on-campus war research, a stop to university ownership of Honeywell Inc. stock, a shutdown of the university so students can work full-time against the war and no reprisals against students joining in antiwar activities.

Moos told the group that a student-faculty committee voted last year to keep ROTC on campus and strengthen it academically. He denied there is any war research on the campus, and said the university owns no Honeywell stock.

He said students could withdraw from classes without repercussions, and added that he agreed with the late Dr. Martin Luther King that people who commit acts of civil disobedience should be responsible for their actions.

Moos was asked if "professional agitators" were involved in the week of protests, which have calmed down from the rock-throwing confrontations with police last Wednesday.

"I wouldn't say professional agitators but I would say non-students are active and heavily engaged in this type of activity," Moos said.

He said of 33 persons arrested in antiwar demonstrations last week, only 13 were university students.

Protestant bar in Belfast is bombed; 17 hurt

BELFAST (AP) — An explosion wrecked a Protestant bar in Belfast late Monday night, injuring 17 persons and sending Protestant youths on a rampage.

It was the second bar bombed in three days. A Roman Catholic tavern was demolished Saturday, touching off a 36-hour Catholic-Protestant battle in which nine persons were killed and more than 70 wounded.

A 50-pound bomb in a parked car shattered the Bluebell Tavern in Sandy Row, a Protestant district in East Belfast. Three girls, 7, 10, and 13 years old, were among the casualties.

Protestant youths threw up barricades around the street, while others charged into a nearby business district, hurling rocks at offices and smashing in windows with clubs.

Police said "older and wiser heads" finally persuaded the youths to return home, and Protestant residents removed the barricades.

The two bar bombings and the reaction that followed heightened fears of civil war between the Protestant majority and the Catholic minority. For many months the Protestants have held back, leaving the task of combatting the Catholic guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army. But since the British government supplanted the Protestant provincial government and made some concessions to the Catholics, Protestant militancy has been increasing.

Amid the escalating Protestant-Catholic violence, gunmen wounded a Catholic father and son in their Belfast home. The father was shot in both legs and the son in the thigh. Police said they could not learn the motive for the attack.

A claymore mine blasted an armoured car and wounded a soldier, outside Londonderry. A mail delivery truck also was blown up two miles from that city and two persons in a passing car were injured.

Bremer—quiet, confident loner

By TIMOTHY L. CURRAN
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Arthur H. Bremer, a 21-year-old one-time photography student accused of shooting George C. Wallace, was described Monday as a lonely, quiet person who was something of a puzzle even to his family.

"Nobody could talk to him," said Bremer's teen-age brother Roger. "We never knew much about him."

A former neighbor said Bremer kept a Wallace sticker across the door of his apartment. Officials said he was a below average student in high school.

In Bremer's apartment, newsmen, who arrived after it had been visited by FBI agents, found a Confederate flag, a gun catalog, a box of firearm cartridges, a comic book, hotel advertisements and several newspaper clippings, one of them relating the frustrations of newsmen trying to get past security guards to reach presidential candidates.

Bremer left the family's wood-frame South Side home last year and moved to an apartment, working as a custodian in public schools and at a private club.

Bremer's truck-driver father, William, 58, said the family "had no idea he was in Maryland. He never mentioned anything about Wallace, never mentioned anything political."

"He never had a gun to my knowledge," the father said. "He never went hunting."

Another brother, Theodore, related: "He was against the radical part of the system of American life. He just stayed away from it."

The Bremer family includes four sons: Theodore, 34; William, 32; Arthur, 21, and Roger, 18.

Government agents investigated Bremer's small apartment, and talked for several hours with a teen-age girl who dated Bremer last winter.

The girl's mother said Bremer shaved his head of its blond, wavy locks when he and the girl broke up in January. "He must have been for George Wallace because he had a Wallace sticker across the door" of his apartment, said Stephen Wasche, who lives in the same apartment building that Bremer did and whose brother is a manager of the building.

"He didn't converse with anybody," said Gary MacDonald, who attended photography classes at a Milwaukee college with Bremer a year ago.

Wasche said he never knew Bremer to have any visitors other than his mother.

Bremer was a student at South Division High School. Officials said his school grades were below average, or 1.5 on a 4-point scale.

MacDonald, 24, said he had difficulty recalling Bremer. MacDonald said he chatted about the Wallace shooting with some of the instructors whose classes Bremer attended a year ago, and that they, too, had difficulty recalling him.

"I never knew him to ask a question," MacDonald said. "He was just quiet, not the kind to carry a gun."

Wasche also described Bremer as a "very quiet person." Bremer, 21, is being held in lieu of $200,000 bond in Maryland, under federal charges of assaulting a candidate for public office and a federal officer and under state charges of assault with intent to kill.

Bremer's truck driver father, William, 58, said his son had "never mentioned anything political," but he said he had learned that his son was a "dues-paying member of the 12th Ward Democratic unit."

Members of Bremer's family—who hadn't seen him since he moved to the apartment in October—described him as "shy and timid."

Arrowhead search turns up coin, triggers digging

CRAB ORCHARD, Ky. (AP) — Caleb Gross was digging for arrowheads around an old tobacco patch near his home when he struck gold.

It was a $10 gold coin. Something of a miniature gold rush developed after the word got around and several hundred people began digging at the farm during the next two days.

Gross, 27, said they found a total of about 50 coins dating from 1850 to 1864, all within 20 feet of the unplowed tobacco patch.

"They couldn't have been in much newer condition if they'd come from the mint," Gross said.

Wallace physician—

Bremer charged with four counts of intent to kill

Fatal assault on a federal officer carries a possible death penalty. Penalty under the civil-rights-act violation could be life imprisonment if the victim dies; otherwise maximum penalty is 10 years and $10,000 fine.

Maryland authorities charged Bremer with four counts of assault with intent to kill. FBI agents said he is being held in Baltimore County Jail in Towson, Md.

Wallace had just finished a 38-minute speech at the shopping center and stepped from behind his bulletproof-steel lectern to shake hands with well-wishers in a supermarket parking lot.

Emmett W. Eaton, a campaign aide, said a man in the crowd called Wallace back: "Hey, George, ain't you going to shake my hand?"

toward him and that's when he was shot," Eaton said.

"I would say that Gov. Wallace walked right into the man's arms," said NBC cameraman Fred Montague.

Eaton said he rushed to the fallen Wallace and began unbuttoning his shirt.

"Where did they get me?" Eaton said Wallace asked. "I told him I didn't think it was too bad."

Mrs. Wallace rushed up and embraced her fallen husband as he lay on the pavement, his blood staining her bright yellow jacket.

Wallace was placed in a station wagon and then transferred to the ambulance for the 15-minute expressway drive to Holy Cross Hospital in Silver Spring, just outside Washington, D.C.

Witnesses said the assailant was wearing Wallace buttons and had been seen at other Wallace rallies. The crowd jumped for him spontaneously.

"He was roughed up pretty bad," one man said later. Maryland State Atty. Arthur A. Marshall said Bremer was taken to a hospital emergency room with lacerations on the back of his head but showed no other wounds. Bremer received two hours of X-ray tests and physical and neurological examinations.

A Justice Department spokesman in Washington said the Secret Service had recovered a .38-caliber snub-nosed revolver Monday which U.S. Atty. George Beall said was purchased by Bremer in Milwaukee last Jan. 13.

At his appearance before Goetz, Bremer declined a court-appointed attorney and said he wanted to be represented by the American Civil Liberties Union.

Poetry only creates more questions

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Scraps of poetry evidently written by Arthur Herman Bremer provided more questions than answers about the young man who was accused Monday of shooting presidential candidate George C. Wallace.

Fellow students, neighbors and members of his family said Bremer was not much of a conversationalist, and that they knew little of his political thoughts.

His West Side apartment, where he moved last year after leaving his family's South Side home, was explored by FBI agents and newsmen who found a Confederate flag, comic books, a gun catalog, an elementary-school report card, newspaper clippings about Wallace, and a several bits of writing.

"My country 'tiz of thee, sweet land of bigotry," a piece of paper said.

Other writings included: "Happiness is hearing George Wallace singing the National Anthem or having him arrested for a hit-and-run accident."

"Nixon uses a night light."

"White collar conservative."

A poem titled "Cretique of My Life" begins: "Trying to impress people."

It ends: "Writing myself notes not to wear tee shirts."

Bremer, 21, was reported to have joined a local Democratic organization, his father said.

An apartment house neighbor, Stephen Wasche, 17, said he understood Bremer to have worked for Wallace's campaign in Wisconsin's April 4 Democratic presidential preference primary.

Governor had— Wallace 'calmest one in ambulance'

"Where did they get me?" Eaton said the governor asked him.

"I told him I didn't think it was too bad," Eaton said. "I don't think he thought it was either."

Another campaign worker, Charles Carmon of Mobile, Ala., said Mrs. Wallace embraced the governor as he lay on the pavement, staining her bright yellow jacket with his blood.

"The blood was awful," Eaton said. "I tried to stop it with my handkerchief and borrowed two more handkerchiefs. It seemed like the ambulance would never get there."

At length, Eaton said, they despaired of the ambulance arriving and loaded Wallace into a station-wagon. Just then the ambulance arrived.

"He was in pain," Eaton said. "But he was the calmest one in the ambulance. "He asked for a pillow and I put a blanket under his head. He asked about his wounds. I tore his shirt off and tried to stop the blood with bandages. He didn't complain. It was then that I noticed the wound in his chest."

The ambulance drove to Holy Cross Hospital in Silver Spring without the benefit of a police escort. When it arrived Wallace was taken immediately to an examining room, then into surgery.

"All of us knew this was something we might have to contend with some day," said Eaton, who had served as an advance man in Wallace's campaign in 1964, 1968 and during the current primaries.

"In fact, just before the shooting I remarked to George Mangum (a campaign worker): 'Well, that's another one under our belts,'" Eaton said.

Wallace won't— Will his wife do campaigning?

It is conceivable that Cornelia Wallace, wife of the governor, might stand in for him at some campaign appearances. There is a precedent. Ineligible to succeed himself when his initial term as governor of Alabama ended, Wallace in 1966 ran his first wife, Lurleen, for the office. She won, but died of cancer before her four-year term was over.

In Maryland, Wallace returned to the scene of his strongest showing in his first presidential campaign outing eight years ago. He entered three Democratic primaries in 1964, losing them all to stand-ins for President Lyndon B. Johnson, but gaining 42 per cent of the vote in Maryland.

Wallace delighted in telling his current campaign crowds that the chance he might make that kind of showing on an 11-name ballot this year gave Democratic leaders the shakes. The former Alabama circuit judge promoted his third-party candidacy in 1968, and wound up carrying five Southern states against Humphrey and President Nixon.

He never flatly ruled out another third-party campaign this year although he indicated it was not probable.

What Wallace seemed to strive for was to be a man to be reckoned with—and, he hoped, dealt with—when the Democrats hold their convention in Miami Beach in July.

He talked of forcing concessions to his viewpoint on such issues as opposition to the busing of school children for purposes of racial balance. That was his big issue in the Florida primary and it was a major one in Michigan, too.

That was the issue that carried the unspoken message of Wallace's segregationist past. But it was only part of the 1972 Wallace campaign fare.

Volpe: we're progressing

105 of 188 hijackers listed as fugitives

By VERN HAUGLAND
WASHINGTON (AP) — Over the last 11 years, 188 persons have hijacked 142 U.S. planes. The Federal Aviation Administration says 105 are still fugitives.

"We're making progress, but we have to stay on top of it," Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe said after a tabulation of records showed nine of the last 16 attempts have ended with the capture or death of the hijacker.

Volpe observed that both the number of hijackings attempted and those successfully carried out declined over the past three years—from 34 successful out of 40 tried in 1969, 16 of 31 in 1970 to 11 of 25 in 1971.

"To date this year, only three hijackings out of 14 have been successful," Volpe said.

James M. Beggs, under-secretary, said Monday he believes the courts, taking action against accused hijackers, have been "responsive—they have done as well as one could expect." But, Beggs added, he still finds it hard to accept that it takes a year or more to bring an accused man to trial.

A tabulation of Transportation and Justice Department files shows that since the first hijacking on May 1, 1961, 37 hijackers have been convicted.

A number have received 20-year prison sentences, others have been given terms of 10, 15 and 25 years, and one is in for life.

Two were killed during hijackings, one committed suicide during the hijacking, and a fourth was killed during a bank holdup 15 months after hijacking an airliner to Cuba.

Another, facing a murder charge for killing the copilot in an attempted hijacking, hanged himself in his jail cell. Still another died in Cuba of undisclosed causes less than a year after hijacking a plane to that country.

Twelve hijackers have been committed to mental institutions. Four more are undergoing mental examinations. Six have been charged and are awaiting trial, and nine are in custody awaiting court action.

Three, all charged with aircraft piracy or attempted piracy, have been released on bond.

Wallace reaction —

Political leaders shocked, outraged

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Leaders across the political spectrum have reacted with shock, outrage and dismay at the shooting of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and deplored the trend of political violence in the nation.

Many officials recalled the assassinations of President John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King Jr. and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy upon learning of the shooting at a Laurel, Md., shopping center on Monday.

Sens. George McGovern and Hubert H. Humphrey, the leading contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination that Wallace was seeking, canceled their scheduled campaign appearances.

President Nixon called Mrs. Wallace at her husband's bedside to offer her hope and prayers for the wounded candidate's recovery.

He called the shooting a "senseless and tragic incident" and said the nation has suffered "more than enough already from the intrusion of violence into its political processes."

McGovern said, "We can only hope and pray for the speedy recovery of Gov. Wallace and we can only say a prayer for our country."

"If we've gotten to the point in this country where a public figure can't speak out on the issues of the day and seek the presidency without being shot, then I tremble for the future of our nation," he said.

Humphrey, who was campaigning in Maryland when he learned of the shooting, rushed to the hospital and spent more than an hour with Wallace's wife while the governor was in surgery.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, brother of John and Robert said, "My heart and prayers go out to Gov. Wallace and to members of his grief-stricken family. Once again, democracy in America has been scarred by senseless and unforgivable violence. I am saddened beyond measure that tragedy has again stained and darkened the process we use to select our political leaders."

On the steps of the Alabama Capitol in Montgomery, a crowd estimated at 500 gathered Monday night for a prayer vigil for Wallace. Some cried openly through the 45-minute service.

In George, the Rev. Andrew Young, a prominent black civil rights leader and a former aide to the late Martin Luther King Jr., said, "It's terrible that the politics of assassination is not over."

"Perpetrators of violence never win and they always end up helping the cause they attack," he said.

Police quiz worker on fatal fire in Japan

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Police questioned a workman today on suspicion he may have carelessly dropped a lighted cigarette and touched off the fire that killed 117 persons in a seventh-floor cabaret Saturday night.

Keiji Kawashima, 36, was doing electrical work on the third floor of the department store in which the night club was located when the fire broke out on the same floor, police said. He and four other workmen escaped injury.

But about 170 persons at the Play Town cabaret upstairs were trapped in smoke when the flames below cut off the electricity, stopping the elevators. Officers said the door to the emergency stairs was locked.

"After the fire broke out, everyone was shouting escape," recounted an injured cabaret girl from her hospital bed. "I don't remember thinking of anything but escape. There was a lot of smoke, choking everybody."

The flames never reached the cabaret, but authorities found the bodies of 96 hostesses and customers dead of asphyxiation. Twenty persons were killed falling or jumping from the windows or from the roof one story above, and another cabaret girl died Sunday of injuries. Twenty-eight others were injured, 10 of them seriously, authorities reported. The fire was Japan's worst since 1951, when 107 persons died in a Yokohama railroad station

Bonds OKed for foundry construction

The Winona City Council Monday night authorized the Winona Port Authority to issue up to $1,775,000 in industrial revenue bonds for construction of the new Badger Foundry Co. in the River Bend Industrial Park.

The foundry, presently located at 168 W. 2nd St., last week announced plans to build on six acres in the park on the city's east side.

Port Authority President Harold Doerer explained to councilmen that the industrial revenue bonds will be retired from income of the property and will not come from taxation.

Doerer noted that the move "does clean up a bad problem that we have on our downtown riverfront."

City Manager Carroll Fry explained that the old foundry site would be sold by the firm once the move is completed, but in answer to questions from council said it is "extremely unlikely" the old building would ever be used for a foundry again, since it violates Minnesota Pollution Control Agency regulations and would have to undergo extensive work to comply.

Doerer reiterated that the bond — including interest — is payable solely from rentals received on the property and does not constitute a debt of either the city or the Port Authority.

He noted that Miller and Schroeder Municipal, Inc., Minneapolis, have already given a letter of intent to purchase the bonds.

McKinney, who will play third base in the spring exhibitions, led both leagues in pinch hitting. Willie Crawford of the Los Angeles Dodgers led National Leaguers in pinch hitting with .421.

Council OK's North Central airline request

The Winona City Council Monday night agreed to support the efforts of North Central Airlines to obtain an extension of the order permitting it to suspend operations here.

The Minneapolis-based airline drew permission from the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) on Oct. 24, 1969 to suspend passenger service here when the locally-owned Mississippi Valley Airlines began operation.

That CAB permission will expire next fall, and North Central is seeking a three-year extension of that permit.

IN OTHER routine council action Monday, councilmen heard a brief explanation of balloting now being done among city employees for four different approaches to improvements in Public Employees Retirement Association (PERA) benefits. The different benefit plans would have little effect on the city, councilmen were told.

Councilmen were also told Monday that the League of Minnesota Municipalities' annual convention will be held in Rochester June 14-16. A letter from the league was filed.

In another matter, councilmen gave quick approval to city membership in the newly-formed Coalition of Outstate Cities, the concept for which was originated by Councilman Dan Trainor, Jr.

Mayor Norman Indall explained that the organization, made up of non-metropolitan cities with similar needs and problems, has been formed to give the outstate cities more "clout" at the state level against growing blocks of metropolitan self-interest groups.

COUNCILMEN approved membership in the organization, approved its bylaws, and authorized spending the $25 membership fee.

Mayor Indall noted that the organization's next meeting will be July 7 in Winona. Slated speakers at that meeting will be the director of the state planning commission and the regional director of the federal department of Housing and Urban Development.

In another matter, the City Council learned Monday that a portion of Gilmore Avenue that is currently Highway 14 will be turned back to the city next Nov. 1.

The turnback involves that portion of Gilmore Avenue from the present Highway 61 intersection to where the new cut-off begins below St. Mary's College. The new Highway 14 will go straight north from St. Mary's to Highway 61 at Pelzer Street.

In its notification of the turnback, the Minnesota Highway Department noted that Gilmore Avenue will not qualify for the municipal state aid street system.

COUNCILMEN instructed the city administration to check the condition of the street and request turnback funds to repair it if such repairs are warranted.

In other routine business, the council approved Mayor Indall's appointment of James Schain, 59 E. Broadway, to the Winona Port Authority. Schain will fill the unexpired term of Myron Findlay, which will expire March 18, 1976. Findlay had resigned.

The council also approved payment of $336 to Robert Westberg, 102 Stone St., for vandalism damage done to a house at 23 Otis St. that Westberg had purchased from the city.

Westberg had filed a claim for $826.97 for damage done to the building about the time he successfully bid for its purchase, but the council agreed to pay him $336, the amount the city collected from its insurance on the property.

In another claim matter, the City Council agreed to pay $400 to Harry and T. J. Stanke, 121 Main St., for damage done to that building when the city rebuilt an alley behind it.

THE GRADE of the alley was raised when it was reconstructed, City Manager Carroll J. Fry explained, leaving the Stanke building below grade. This has caused water to run into the building, Fry noted.

Several councilmen questioned the value of the building itself, but Fry urged payment of the $400 claim, a reduction from an original claim of $1,450, and the council agreed.

Other routine council business included approval to a request of the newly-formed Winona Safety Coordinating Committee to close a portion of High Street for a bicycle safety demonstration.

The street will be closed between West Broadway and West Wabasha Street from 5-8 p.m. Friday for the safety program.

The City Council also approved a request by City Finance Director Darrel Johnson to increase deposits at the Town and Country State Bank to $125,000.

Councilmen also gave routine approval to a drain layer's license for H.D. Kramer Plumbing Co., 312 E. 3rd St., and a sidewalk layer's license for Eber Construction Co., La Crosse, Wis.

Anderson hopes country will get over violence

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Gov. Wendell Anderson, expressing his shock over the shooting of Alabama Gov. George Wallace, said he hopes the country "will recover from the sick violence and hate that have cost us so many of our leaders."

Anderson, in a release issued from his office, said the shooting Monday left him "shocked and saddened." He said he was speaking for all Minnesotans in extending sympathy to Wallace, his wife and members of the family.

"Violence in any form is destructive, but it becomes particularly so when it is directed against men in public life who command the love and respect of large numbers of people."

Recover body of drowned Milwaukeean

ALMA, Wis. — The body of a drowning victim — Arthur Motowski, 66, Milwaukee, was spotted floating in the Mississippi River here Monday about 6 p.m. by two Alma fishermen.

One week ago, on May 8, Motowski fell into the water while fishing from a boat with two other companions near Lock & Dam No. 4 here.

Felix Kramer and Hal Goldner, Alma, saw the body in the water Monday evening by a boat landing as they were fishing on shore near the Dairyland Power Co. in the city limits, which is about 2,000 feet from where he fell in the water seven days ago.

Motowski's fishing companions were George Ellington, 66, Milwaukee, and Glen Bielefeld, about 25, Buffalo City.

Buffalo County Sheriff Myron Hoch reported that the men had their boat anchored between roller gate No. 1 and the auxiliary lock of the dam, while they were fishing. When the boat started to fill up with water (the anchor was over the back end of the boat) the men jumped into the river.

Motowski reportedly lost his hold on the back end of the small aluminum motor boat, went down once, came up, and then disappeared in the fast moving current.

Dragging operations were conducted by the Buffalo County authorities, assisted by members of the Department of Natural Resources, Alma Chief of Police Fred Glander, and many other volunteers.

Motowski's body was taken to a Milwaukee funeral home, where memorial services had been scheduled for this morning.

Local firm low bidder on city sewer projects

The Winona City Council Monday night accepted the apparent low bid for the city's 1972 sewer construction projects.

Low bidder on the project was Winona Plumbing Co., 1126 E. Broadway, with a bid of $61,781.45, well below City Engineer Robert Bollant's estimate of $69,700.

The work essentially involves six projects, three of them storm sewer and three sanitary sewer. They include: storm sewer construction in the Miracle Mall Shopping Center area; storm sewer extension to serve the McNally townhouse project at the far east end of the city; several minor storm sewer projects to be done in connection with curb and gutter work; sanitary sewer extension to Lake Park at Franklin Street (Herold Edstrom property); sanitary sewer extension in East Burns Valley Road, and a sanitary sewer extension in Conrad Drive on Wincrest.

OTHER BIDS received included: Frank Construction Co.,

Glen Mary, $77,266.15; American Plumbing and Heating Co., 119 Washington St., $77,046.40, and Three-Way Construction Co., Waite Park, Minn., $84,673.94.

Edstrom, 216 Lake Drive, had previously balked at a request that he sign a sewer easement through his property, and the council had then offered to give him his old, troublesome sewer and free the city from obligation to pump it weekly. The council was told Monday night that he has since signed the easement.

City to write off missing gasoline

The Winona City Council Monday night agreed to write off a bad aviation fuel debt from Winona Aviation Service, Inc., that had accrued over the last nine years.

The move amounted to the city's agreeing not to force the firm to pay $2,350.44 for 6,900 gallons of fuel that disappeared over the nine year period that the city bought fuel for the airport and resold it to Winona Aviation.

The fuel amounted to one percent shrinkage of the total 682,000 gallons sold during that period, an amount City Manager Carroll J. Fry said is not unusual, since normal gasoline shrinkage may run as high as three percent.

UNDER the system operated prior to Aug. 4, 1971, Fry reminded councilmen, the city purchased fuel in bulk and then sold it to the fixed base operator — Winona Aviation — which paid for the fuel as it sold it.

In this way, Fry explained, any shrinkage that occurred from evaporation or other normal causes was never sold by Aviation and therefore never paid for.

The city never attempted to determine shrinkage and controlled fuel prices so tightly it never allowed a margin of profit large enough to cover it, the manager noted.

Under the system in effect since last summer, the firm now buys and sells its own fuel and takes its own shrinkage risks.

Fry recommended that the city absorb the loss rather than forcing it upon the already financially ailing Winona Aviation. In its letter asking for the council move, the firm noted that its stock "has depreciated to the point of being worth only a fraction of its original value," and that the firm's "very survival is now in question."

Manager Fry noted that the city already faces financial problems at the airport, and if Winona Aviation goes broke, the city will be forced to take over as fixed base operator by default.

Noting that the system of purchase and sale there has changed so that a similar situation cannot arise again, the council quickly approved the action.

IN RELATED action Monday, councilmen approved resolutions accepting three sewer easements related to the projects just bid. They included Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McNally, for the townhouse area storm sewer, and two others, William Wiczorek and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Weinberger, Sr., Stanley Weinberger, Jr., and Miss Mary Weinberger, both relating to property in the Miracle Mall storm sewer project area.

Councilmen were told that City Attorney George Robertson last week began condemnation procedures against Western Land Corp., owner of the shopping center, for an easement there.

Column helps reader realize good fortune

DEAR ABBY: You have just made my day! In your column, you listed the three top causes of friction in marriage. Jealousy, money and cards.

It made me realize how lucky I am because neither my husband nor I are attractive enough to anyone else to create jealousy, we have no extra money to fight over, and we don't play cards!

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Then to top it off, your CONFIDENTIAL TO FROM THE OLD SCHOOL: "Welcome to the club. Very few of us who had 'old world' parents were told the facts of life by our mothers. All my mother told me, God bless her, was never to put bananas in the refrigerator," gave me the biggest laugh I've had in years. I roared aloud to an empty house as my husband had gone to work.

All the bad news in the rest of the newspaper, nor anything thrown at me for the rest of the day, can't erase the warm, lighthearted feeling I got from reading your column today.

Just had to let you know.

D. W. IN MINNESOTA

DEAR D. W.: We're even! Your letter just made my day! Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I rented an apartment in an expensive high-rise building. About six months ago, a very lovely older couple in their sixties rented the apartment right next to ours, and we haven't had a good night's sleep since.

Their quarreling and bickering can be heard until the wee hours of the morning. The way they shout at each other, they must be deaf.

We can't say that they are actually disturbing the peace because they don't have any crashing, smashing fights, just very noisy arguments that last until dawn.

We hate to complain to the management because these people are quite charming. Any suggestions?

THE FOLKS NEXT DOOR

DEAR FOLKS: If you haven't told them that they are keeping you up nights, that should be your first order of business. Perhaps they ARE hard of hearing, and hopefully your complaint will inspire them to get hearing aids.

Your letter raises two questions: 1. How do you figure they aren't disturbing your peace if they keep you up nights? 2. How do you define "charming"?

DEAR ABBY: This concerns your unsympathetic answer to "EXHAUSTED," who was drained dry by her mother's endless list of unreasonable demands. You said, "After all, she IS your mother."

I won't say, "Shame on you, Dear Abby," because through the years of reading your column, it is my bet that you had the kind of mother many of us would like to have had. However, I for one wasn't that fortunate, so I know how "EXHAUSTED" feels.

While your advice was sound, you should have added, "If you can't beat it (the situation), and you can't join it, you will have to learn to walk away from it—for a while. Let Mom run her own vacuum, make her own bed and write her own checks. Your own health is more important to you and your family than anyone else's."

Cold-hearted and cruel? Not at all. Just sensible. My own children taught me that most mothers EARN the treatment they get from their children in their later years. And the person who so wisely pointed this out to me said, "Your mother IS your mother, but it was HER act that caused it—not yours."

MRS. R. IN COLUMBUS

Cathedral is scene of nuptial exchange

The Cathedral of the Sacred Heart was the setting for the April 29 marriage of Miss Judith Bork and Alfred Pieper Jr. The Rev. Msgr. Joseph McGinnis officiated at the ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bork, Trempealeau, Wis., with the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Pieper Sr., Dover, Minn.

Bev Shaw was organist and Tom Dezell was soloist and guitarist.

PRESENTED in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of white lace over tulle designed on empire lines. Satin ribbon trimmed the neckline and ruffles formed the cuffs of the long sleeves. A pillbox headpiece held the short bridal veil and she carried an old-fashioned bridal bouquet of pink roses and white stephanotis.

Miss Joan Bork, Trempealeau, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mary Pieper, Patricia Dulde, Judith Pieper and Roselyn Bork. Susan Bork was flower girl. The attendants were gowned in long dresses of pink crepe designed on empire lines with Peter Pan collars and short puffed sleeves. They wore matching veils and carried baskets of pink carnations and white daisies.

Mankato freshman running for board at Waldorf-Pemberton

WASECA, Minn. (AP)—A Mankato State College freshman who says he is familiar with the school system is running as a write-in candidate for the Waldorf-Pemberton school board.

Darrel Olson, 18, who graduated from high school last year, said he originally did not file for a seat on the board because he didn't know 18-year-olds were eligible to seek office.

"I think there is a want in the community to have a younger person on the school board who knows what's going on and is closer to the students," Olson said.

Eagles hatched by artificial insemination

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — A study into the breeding habits and early life patterns of eagles has resulted in what is believed the first hatching through artificial insemination of the golden eagle species.

James W. Grier, a Cornell University graduate student who headed the project, said that attempts to pair captive adult golden eagles through natural mating were unsuccessful, resulting in the decision to use the artificial insemination technique.

This involved the injection of male semen into a female bird with a syringe. The female egg, thus fertilized, was removed and placed in an incubator at the university.

The result: two golden eagle chicks who are now gathering strength before being released to the wild.

The first eaglet cracked his shell May 11 and weighed in at 3½ ounces. The second followed two days later, and five others are expected to see life at regular intervals until the last day of this month.

13 from 'U' to discuss war with state delegation

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Seven University of Minnesota students and six faculty members were scheduled to discuss the Vietnam War Tuesday with members of the Minnesota congressional delegation in Washington, D.C.

The group included Carl Auerbach, acting dean of the Law School and chairman of the University Senate Consultative Committee; Jack Baker, president of the Minnesota Student Association; and Steve Hunt, a student at Minnesota-Morris and a member of the Student Consultative Committee.

The group departed Monday on the trip financed through private contributions.

Lucey says fiscal problems of state must be curtailed

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — There is "utmost urgency" for state governments to curtail the fiscal problems caused by their increasing budgets, Gov. Patrick J. Lucey said Monday.

The governor, addressing a conference of management consultants and representatives of government agencies, said solutions are needed "to hold spending and taxation within reasonable limits."

"State and local governments across the country are faced with the need to provide essential services, and at the same time, respond to the demands of taxpayers for an end to increasing public budgets," he said.

Lucey, who took office in 1970, said Wisconsin's government personnel roster in the last decade has increased 90 per cent while payrolls have increased four times.

Security elaborate but fusion of people, politics dangerous

By LEE BYRD

WASHINGTON (AP) — You're at a political rally and a friendly young man sidles up and gives you a slight, painless nudge in the ribs. He is smiling and the gesture seems to say "Hi, how are ya?" But what he really wanted to know is whether you've got a gun.

It's a little trick often employed by the Secret Service. And if it had been used on the right man Monday, George C. Wallace likely would have been spared the bullets which felled him on a Laurel, Md., parking lot.

Yet who would expect the Secret Service or local police to spot every potential assailant in a crowd?

Not George Wallace, who took the step of adding Alabama state troopers to the corps of federal men who followed him and still felt "fully aware of the possibility" he would be shot.

And having more agents, said Asst. Treasury Secretary Eugene T. Rossides, "would have made absolutely no difference in a situation like this."

At best, the business of candidate protection is one of reducing the risks. But they never are eliminated. Not as long as politicians insist on demonstrating their popularity in hand-shaking tours and hoopla rallies. Not as long as just a few men are willing to commit a violent act, whether it is upon a Dr. Martin Luther King or a George Corley Wallace.

The late Robert F. Kennedy told his closest aides that if a man wanted to kill him, he'd probably find a way to do it, no matter what. Meanwhile, said Kennedy, a man has to take a man's chances.

But does he? In an era when newspapers, television and radio can reach virtually every voting man and woman in the nation, is it really necessary to charge through a mob of mere hundreds and thereby subject the will of the majority to the whim of a fanatic?

Or should a man running for the highest office in the land forego such gallantry, like the general who remains at the rear line, as a matter of national interest?

The notion that massive face-to-face contact is necessary is something of an American exclusive among democracies.

Too, America leads the world in the number of lethal weapons among its citizens and the ease by which they can be procured. Remember the great gun debate after RFK was shot?

And there were tighter gun controls as a result. And for the first time, major candidates were assigned agents before the nominating conventions. The Secret Service force was nearly quadrupled since that day in Los Angeles, now totaling over 700 agents. But George Wallace was shot nonetheless, as he reached to shake a hand.

Now the protection will be expanded again. Sen. Edward Kennedy, Rep. Shirley Chisholm and Rep. Wilbur Mills have been added to the list of those under guard.

The task of guarding the Democratic candidates is regarded as far tougher by some agents than that of protecting the president and vice president. In White House travels, the routes are known and can be carefully advanced. Buildings are searched in some cases, with men posted on rooftops.

But the primary candidates don't follow such pre-set routine. The Secret Service declines to say how many men are assigned to each candidate, though it could be as many as 50. No more than eight or 10 are usually at the campaigner's side at any one time, however.

At a typical Wallace rally, four Secret Service agents stood on the platform, arms folded or behind their back, intently studying the crowd as if no one were above suspicion. Others would be in the audience or at the rear of the hall.

When Wallace made a major speech, at an auditorium or rally, he stood behind a bullet-proof rostrum. He used it in three campaigns in the last eight years, and spoke behind it Monday at Laurel. But then, contrary to his more usual practice, he stepped out to shake those hands.

The New York State Department of Commerce handled 25,500 letters from youngsters seeking information about the Empire State in 1971.

"DON'T FORGET TO TAKE HER CREDIT CARDS."

Money Does Matter . . .

By MIKE LEONARD

What is the danger point in personal and family credit? Just how far can one safely go as a player in the "buy now — pay later" game? (Time-payment buying, not including home mortgages.)

Go into hock to the extent that as much or more than 40% of your income is going to pay off bills and you really are in trouble!

Some families, and individuals, find it difficult to handle credit without losing control — and the price they pay for their lack of skill is indeed a most high one. Disaster can easily be triggered by an accident or illness.

As a "Full Service" Bank we at the First National Bank of Winona are naturally making it possible, through installment buying, for many families to have and enjoy some of the comforts and necessities of living which would not otherwise be possible.

However, we are well aware of the danger signs and the limits to which credit buying should be subjected. We'll be happy to advise you, personally and confidentially, and without charge — do know this!

Concordia enters picture Wrinkle in playoffs

A new wrinkle, or, to be clearer, a new team, may be added to the District 13 NAIA baseball playoffs this year — Concordia College of St. Paul.

Two teams have already qualified for the playoffs by virtue of conference championships.

Winona State, defending district champion, won a berth by winning the Northern Intercollegiate Conference crown for the first time in six years.

The College of St. Thomas claimed another berth as co-champion of the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. St. Mary's of Winona shared the title, but turned down the playoff berth, as it does every year.

Concordia, however, may also be in the picture—if it wins the first game of a doubleheader with Carlton College scheduled for today.

The Comets sport a 12-3 overall record and an 8-2 mark in the Tri-State Conference. They finished second in that loop behind Northwestern of Iowa's 9-1 slate, losing both games to the champions.

Carlton sports a 4-12 record and finished last in the four-team Midwest Conference.

According to district officials, Concordia must be considered in the playoffs because the Comets have won more than 66-2/3 percent of their games. A stipulation was added, however, that Concordia finish its regular season schedule today with the nonconference twin bill at Northfield.

If Concordia wins the first game of the doubleheader, slated to start at 2:30 p.m., the Comets will then meet Winona State in a tripleheader Wednesday at Winona's Gabyrch Park starting at noon.

If the Comets should lose the first game, they will be out of the picture and Winona State and St. Thomas will clash for district honors Friday in a tripleheader at St. Thomas to start at noon.

The results of today's second game have no bearing on the picture.

If a tripleheader is played Wednesday, the winner (best-of-three) will battle St. Thomas on the latter's home field Sunday in a tripleheader to start at noon.

Winona State currently holds down a 21-9 record and was 12-3 in the NIC. St. Thomas is 15-8 overall and was 12-2 in the MIAC. The Warriors beat Carlton twice in a doubleheader earlier this year 4-1 and 2-0. St.

Team to beat in A.L. East: Birds, Tigers

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The team to beat in the American League East is (a) the Baltimore Orioles, (b) the Detroit Tigers.

"They have to beat us," said Earl Weaver, the Baltimore manager, after the Orioles edged the Tigers 3-2 Monday night and snapped a four-game losing streak.

"He's got that a little mixed up, doesn't he? They're behind us," replied Billy Martin, the Detroit skipper.

That brilliant repartee may bring a chuckle or two from Ken Aspromonte, manager of the Cleveland Indians, who were idle Monday but lead the division by one game over the Tigers and 2½ over the Orioles.

Elsewhere, the Chicago White Sox nipped Minnesota 4-3, Oakland downed California 2-1 and Kansas City shaded Texas 5-4. Milwaukee, Boston and the New York Yankees, along with the Indians, were not scheduled.

Baltimore's Jim Palmer not only hurled a four-hitter to beat the Tigers in Detroit for the first time in his career, but slammed his first major league triple in the seventh inning and scored the winning run on Don Buford's bloop single.

Palmer pitched scoreless ball after being tagged for solo home runs by Gates Brown in the first inning and Willie Horton in the second. The Orioles tied the score in the second on Mark Belanger's run-scoring single and in the third on Merv Rettenmund's homer.

The race in the AL West also tightened up as the Twins saw their lead shrink to 1½ games over the A's and 2½ over the White Sox.

The White Sox kayoed Minnesota's Jim Perry inside of two innings and held on for their 12th victory in 13 home games as opposed to 23 on the road. Wilbur Wood notched his sixth triumph, with last-out help from Terry Forster.

Harmon Killebrew homered for the Twins in the ninth. Blue Moon Odom fired a two-hitter and Angel Mangual homered as the A's edged the Angels. The right-hander, fighting his way back from arm problems and apparently a regular starter now that Denny McLain has been sent to the minors, yielded only a third-inning single to Sandy Alomar and Bob Oliver's run-scoring double in the fifth.

Joe Rudi singled home an Oakland run in the first inning and Mangual homered in the fourth off loser Nolan Ryan who left the game in the same inning with a recurring groin injury. The Angels also lost Ken Berry, the AL's leading hitter, with a concussion and gash over his right eye when he collided on the baselines with Oakland second baseman Larry Brown.

The Royals blew a 4-0 lead against Texas before Lou Piniella singled in the eighth inning and Cookie Rojas doubled him home with the winning run. Piniella and Rojas also tied the score in the second on Mark Belanger's run-scoring single and in the third on Merv Rettenmund's homer.

The race in the AL West also tightened up as the Twins saw

Andrews' 2-strike bunt nips Twins

By JOE MOOSHLIL

CHICAGO (AP) — "Will someone ask my friend, that young genius across the way, where he got that play," belted Bill Rigney Monday night after his Minnesota Twins had dropped a 4-3 decision to the Chicago White Sox.

"I know he doesn't have a sign for it."

"Tell him I learned it from him," laughed White Sox Manager Chuck Tanner.

The play in question came in the second inning when the Sox had two on with none out and Mike Andrews at bat. Andrews failed in two bunt attempts and then with two strikes on him, he bunted safely.

Losing pitcher Jim Perry bobbed the ball as the Sox filled the bases and one out later Richie Allen singled across what proved to be the winning runs to give the Sox a 4-1 lead.

Actually, Rigney didn't teach Tanner the two-strike bunt and Tanner didn't learn it from Rigney. Andrews did it on his own.

"I bunted on my own," said Andrews. "It was the first time in my life I ever bunted with two strikes on me. I consider myself a pretty good bunter and I got angry over not being able to bunt the first two times. So I decided to bunt anyway."

The Twins scratched a second unearned run off winner Wilbur Wood in the fifth inning and finally got him out of the game in the ninth.

With one out in the ninth, Harmon Killebrew hit his third homer of the season and Bobby Darwin followed with a smash yanked Wood to bring another lefthander, Terry Forster, to face Eric Soderholm, a right hander.

"I saw all those lefthanded hitters flexing their muscles in the dugout," said Tanner. "So I wasn't about to bring in a right-handed pitcher. You can tell Rigney I also learned that from him."

The victory lifted the Sox within 2½ games of the Twins who lead the American League West and was Chicago's 12th in 13 games at home this season. They are 2-8 on the road.

"We'll win on the road," vowed Tanner. "We just haven't been able to get it going away from home because of rainouts and open dates. Last year we were one under .500 on the road and three under at home."

Wood boosted his record to 6-2 while Perry dropped to 3-2 and the Twins wasted a ton of great relief pitching.

Ray Corbin took over for Perry in the second and ended the inning with a double play. He pitched two more innings and allowed one hit. Young Tom Norton, 22, hurled three hitless innings and Dave LaRoche put the Sox down in order in the eighth.

Steve Bryne followed with a double to center and Tanner

Gibson pitching good, but he's not winning

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer

"I've been pitching good. It's just that I haven't been winning," Bob Gibson understated. "And winning is what it's all about."

Gibson, the St. Louis Cardinals' flame-throwing right-hander, has been getting most of the heat this season. He has yet to record his first victory of the season to counteract the five defeats he's suffered.

Most of the time it's been just one or two pitches that have made the difference. On Monday night it was one he threw to Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, who walloped it over the right field fence for a three-run homer and the Pirates' 4-1 victory.

In other National League action, Philadelphia blanked the Chicago Cubs 4-0, Houston bombed Atlanta 8-2, the New York Mets defeated Montreal 5-3 and Los Angeles nipped San Diego 2-1.

"Every time I made a good pitch it seems I jammed somebody and they got a hit," said Gibson, who gave up 11 of them in his third complete game of the season.

"The pitch I threw to Clemente on the home run was a fast ball. I didn't think it was gone—but it sure as hell was."

Dock Ellis scattered five hits for his fourth victory.

Woodie Fryman tossed a six-hitter for the Phillies and got some longball help from Mike Anderson and Willie Montanez who hit home runs for a 2-0 lead, before Fryman singled in two runs of his own to down the Cubs.

Anderson, a rookie who clouted 36 homers in the Pacific Coast League, opened up against Ferguson Jenkins in the fifth inning for the only run Philadelphia needed.

In the seventh, Montanez unloaded. "I hit it good," he beamed. "I didn't even move from the plate. I wanted to see it go out."

The Astros, remaining within a game of the first-place Dodgers in the National League West, bunched three infield hits, a bases-loaded walk by Roger Metzger and second baseman Felix Millan's throwing error into a three-run third inning that carried them past Atlanta.

Jim Fregosi's three-run homer broke an eighth inning tie with Montreal and powered the Mets, first by three games in the East, to their fourth victory in a row and 17th in 22 games. Tommie Agee also homered for the Mets and Jon Maltack, with ninth-inning relief help, picked up his fourth victory without a defeat.

Willie Davis' double and walks to Manny Mota and Billy Grabarkewitz loaded the bases for the Dodgers in the ninth inning against the Padres and pinchhitter Chris Canizaro broke a 1-1 tie with a line single off Enzo Hernandez' glove at shortstop.

McLain optioned to minor leagues

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Pitches which lacked steam and a medical problem were cited by Oakland A's manager Dick Williams when he broke the news that former 31-game winner Denny McLain was optioned to the minor leagues.

"He just wasn't throwing the ball as hard as we know he can," said Williams of the right-hander who has a $75,000 contract.

McLain, apparently informed of the move Monday morning by A's owner Charles Finley, did not make the trip with the team here for a series with the California Angels.

Williams said the pitcher visited a doctor on Sunday who blamed a medication McLain was taking for making the pitcher feel weak.

The prescription was changed, Williams said, but he didn't mention what ailment McLain was under treatment for.

Over the weekend, Williams had demoted McLain to the A's bullpen after the pitcher was hit hard in his last start. "I don't think he has the velocity he had in the past," the manager said then. "I go on what I see out there. . . . From the way he's throwing, and the statistics show it, I don't think he could help anybody right now."

McLain had a 1-2 record with the A's but was unsuccessful in four of five outings.

Dedication set

FORMAL DEDICATION ceremonies have been slated May 21 at 1 p.m. at Forestville State Park, just west of Preston, Minn. A group of area and state officials will be on hand to do the honors.

The park—encircling more than 2,000 acres of hardwood forest, a rolling valley and a meandering stretch of the South Branch of the Root River—offers a great deal for a visitor to see.

While the ceremonies will include the entire park, they will no doubt center around the park's focal point—the Meighen Store.

This fascinating page from history has been restored and is waiting for hundreds of history buffs and sight-seers. The store dates back to the 1850s when Felix Meighen opened what proved to be the first store in Southern Minnesota.

The store closed its doors in 1910 and didn't reopen until a year ago. Many of the items originally sold still line the shelves.

Forestville itself was an important town before Minnesota became a state, but all that remains today is a store, a livery, a brick house, a cemetery and a host of memories.

The rest of the park offers some top-notch trout fishing, bird watching, hiking and, for the horseman, a series of riding trails and a specialized horse campground.

Members of the Meighen family are expected to attend the ceremonies as well as a representative of the governor's office, a Boy Scout honor guard and the Chatfield Brass, an area band.

Tempting smells

FOR YEARS people have debated the affects of smell on game fish. For instance, does the smell from a man's hands scare them away, does the smell of live bait make them strike and what about scented lures?

Today several tackle companies are experimenting with scented lures, and they claim smell is a real attraction.

We received a couple of little bottles in the mail the other day. One is filled with yellow liquid and the other is blue. According to the accompanying letter, these two products are part of a new line of special scents to add to lures, to water in minnow buckets to give minnows a "flavor" or to worm bedding to add zest to the wrigglers.

Each of the six new scents is designed especially for a type of fish. We received those for bass and for northern, muskies and walleyes. There also are scents for trout, panfish, catfish and carp.

The idea is to add a couple of drops to whatever you're fishing with—fly, plug, spoon or jig. Time hasn't permitted a good test of the stuff, but it sounds like a feasible proposition.

At any rate, we'll keep notes and see what happens.

Ironically, just about the same time the little bottles showed up, so did a message. It seems the solution has been taken one step further, to a series of scented lures.

These lures have the special attracting scent processed within them and it is only released when they get wet. The secret is in the new finish with which each lure is coated.

When it is dry, the scent is trapped within, but when it gets wet it expands to open thousands of small holes and let the scent escape.

Railbirds bring out sliderules at Indianapolis

Take a second look at Unser's qualifying lap

By BLOYS BRITT
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The railbirds brought out their slide rules at Indianapolis Monday and took a second look at Bobby Unser's breathtaking 196.678 qualifying lap.

Among other things, they figured:

- Had the Albuquerque, N.M., driver gone 219.13 feet further in his elapsed time of 45.76 seconds, he'd have reduced his time to 45 seconds flat and his lap speed would have been 200 miles per hour.
- Putting it another way, 293.3 feet per second is 200 m.p.h. at the 2 1/2-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway oval. Unser covered 289 feet each second he was under the clock.
- Or, as one of the seasoned observers put it, "Say the words '1,000-to-1' real quick and you've already used the time he needed to do 200. Or simply blink your eyelashes three times."

Unser, driving one of Dan Gurney's Olsonite Eagles, ripped off four laps at an astounding 195.940 m.p.h. to take a stranglehold on the pole position for the May 27 Indianapolis 500-mile race.

It was, as still another sliderule put it, "the greatest combination of driver, machine and sheer courage in the history of auto racing."

But while the Speedway crowd was still agog over a record-shattering performance Sunday that lifted the one-and-four-lap marks more than 17 m.p.h. over anything ever recorded at the ancient brickyard, work went on for the other drivers—particularly Mark Donohue and Peter Revson.

These two hotshots are the only top contenders who still have a shot at Unser's pole position in final time trials this weekend. Even then, the best they may hope for is to snatch the other two front row spots being held for the time being by Gary Bettenhausen and Mario Andretti.

Bedtenhausen qualified his McLaren at 188.877 m.p.h. Sunday for the second-best time of the day. Andretti put one of Parnelli Jones' radical new cars in the lineup at 187.617.

Donohue worked his Roger Penske McLaren up to 190.114 Monday. Revson also hovered near the 190 mark in a Team McLaren car, though he already has done over 191 in practice.

Twelve drivers made the 33-car lineup Sunday, averaging a sizzling 183.980 m.p.h. for the 48 miles they covered.

Wanda McBride Knepper: Gal mechanic in Gasoline Alley

By DALE BURGESS
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Wanda McBride Knepper didn't know a torque wrench from a screwdriver until she was 18 years old.

Now she is the first authentic woman race car mechanic permitted to work in the Indianapolis Motor Speedway garages.

"I was in high school at Arnold, Missouri," she recalled, "when some friends asked me if I wanted to meet a midwest driver who had just got back from Korea."

"I expected to meet a midwest man. I didn't know there was such a thing as auto racing."

So she met Arnie Knepper of Belleville, Ill., who had grown up in racing with his father, Roy. She found his stature and occupation satisfactory and married him two years later.

"I've worked on race cars for 17 years," Mrs. Knepper said. "Arnie started me off like he would anybody else—washing engine parts in kerosene. Then I graduated to ordering parts and checking the shipments, then to tearing down engines, and then to helping put them back together."

"I did most of the body work on the car Arnie hopes to drive in the 500-mile race. It's a 1968 Eagle that has been driven by Mark Donohue, Ronnie Bucknum and Arnie. Arnie has made some modifications on the back end."

"It had a Chevrolet engine last year and Arnie qualified in three of the six USAC championships races where we took it."

"This year we're putting in an Offenhauser engine," the attractive, brown-haired Mrs. Knepper said. "House work? No way."

At the big Indianapolis track, Mrs. Knepper says her main jobs are "parts running and holding things."

"I can't do jobs that take a lot of muscle. I have no intention of working in the pits on race day. That's another place for muscle."

Apart from the new engine, the rebuilt Eagle has wings devised by NASA engineer Mervin Shanafelt, a native of Belleville whose father used to race with Knepper's father.

The Kneppers have three children, Peggy, 15; Art, 13, and Tina, 8 who stay with friends when their parents go racing.

"I enjoy it, I really do," the attractive, brown-haired Mrs. Knepper said. "House work? No way."

Lane signs with Pack

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Hoping for an overhauled backfield to improve their National Football League problems, the Green Bay Packers announced Monday night the signing of running back MacArthur Lane.

Coach Dan Devine related to a stockholders meeting from Oakland, Calif., that he had gotten the contract holdout to agree to a multiyear pact. He did not elaborate.

The Packers had acquired Lane in a trade with the St. Louis Cardinals for Donny Anderson, formerly one of the key men in Green Bay's backfield.

Devine's announcement delighted a meeting of 97 stockholders, overshadowing the club's report of 1971 profits of $766,361, a decrease of $373,018 from the 1970 report.

Club president Dominic Olejniczak offered no explanations for the decrease, nor did stockholders request any, a spokesman said.

A statement by the corporation indicated the club had encountered increased expenses.

Costs of the regular season were listed at $2.51 million, about $358,556 more than the previous season.

Administrative costs increased from $770,280 in 1970 to more than $1.02 million last year.

Weather hit the Packer pocketbook in 1971. The team had to be shipped two days ahead of schedule to St. Louis for a game because foul weather interrupted practice sessions in Green Bay.

Weather similarly forced a trip to Miami a week early.

Income increased slightly, climbing above the $3 million level.

Lane, contacted by telephone at his Oakland home, said he and Devine agreed to a two-year contract with an option for a third season.

Wrinkle

Thomas did not meet either Concordia or Carlton this season.

The reason given for Winona State playing Concordia, despite the Warriors' outright title and better overall record, is that an MIAC rule prohibits any athletic team to play during the week of final exams.

The Tommies are taking their finals this week.

The District 13 champion will advance to the Area Four playoffs at Waverly, Iowa, May 26-27. Others involved in that double elimination tournament will be champions from Iowa, Wisconsin and Missouri.

The area champion advances to the national tournament at Phoenix, Ariz., June 5-10.

LeBrec paces Arkansaw

ARKANSAW, Wis. — Jim LeBrec drove in a total of nine runs in two games as Arkansaw swept a West Central Conference doubleheader against Eau Claire Immanuel Lutheran here Monday afternoon by scores of 12-1 and 12-2.

LeBrec went 3-for-6 in the first game including a two-run homerun, but it took a squeeze bunt on his part to push across the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning after the Lancers had taken an 11-0 edge in the top of the frame.

Denny Meyers picked up the victory in relief in the opener for the Travelers, and Dan Erickson went the distance in the second game tossing a five-hitter to get the win.

LeBrec collected five RBIs in the nightcap.
